McGowan to step down, move on

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Michael McGowan, one of West Sacramento's preeminent 'pols' since becoming the city's first mayor in 1987, will leave elected office next month.

He has been appointed by Governor Jerry Brown as deputy director of strategic planning and policy at the state department of motor vehicles.

"My last board of supervisors meeting is Dec. 3rd and my first day at the new job is the fourth," McGowan told the News-Ledger.

After serving on West Sacramento's first city council starting in 1987, McGowan was elected to the Yolo County Board of Supervisors in 1993. He has served the 1st District (including most of West Sacramento and Clarksburg) since.

He believes the county to be in "sound" shape with a great staff.

What will he do at the new job?

"My role is probably more akin to being a special assistant to the director," he told the News-Ledger. "One of the things I know I'll be doing right away involves the 'undocumented drivers' legislation that the governor approved into law. That will undoubtedly require some programming challenges. How is it going to work in different parts of the state, or with local sheriff's departments?"

The new post pays about $125,000. The remainder of McGowan's board term (which ends in January, 2017) will be filled by an appointment by the governor.

Hit and run: one dead

Two people are in custody after a hit-and-run killing in West Sacramento on Tuesday night, Nov. 5.

After a man was run down in a store parking lot on the 900-block of Sacramento Avenue, local police released surveillance photos of the suspects and their motorhome, which were widely distributed in Sacramento-area media (including the News-Ledger's own website).

Lieutenant Tod Sockman of the West Sacramento Police Department reported that police responded to a parking lot near a store at 960 Sacramento Avenue at about 9:40 p.m., finding a man dead in the parking lot. He had apparently been killed by a man and woman driving in a motorhome. They had just been inside a nearby store and had been recorded on surveillance video.

The victim was identified by the Yolo County Coroner's office as 55-year old Michael Ray Anderson of West Sacramento. A preliminary police report listed Anderson as a Lompoc resident.

Officers believed that Anderson and the suspects (and perhaps others) were involved in an argument before the motorhome hit Anderson. Police released images of the suspects at a store counter, and images of the suspects' RV. The images were picked up by local media.

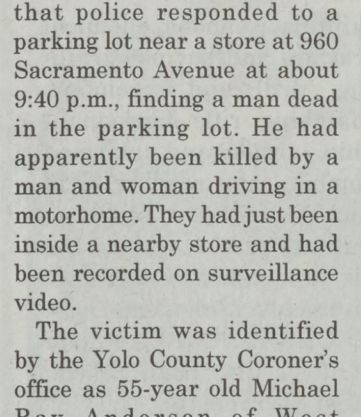
On Thursday at about 5 p.m., 31-year old Joshua Neil Anthon of Rio Linda turned himself in to police in connection with the case. Several hours later, the second suspect also turned herself in. She is identified as Pamela Nicole McKee, 33, of Sacramento.

JOSHUA NEIL ANTHON of Rio Linda: He turned himself in to police after a media blitz in the death of a West Sacramento man in a north-city parking lot

PAMELA NICOLE McKEE: 33-year old Sacramento woman also turned herself in & will face a murder charge

Both were charged with murder and jailed in Yolo County.

"The dedicated detectives of the West Sacramento Police Department worked around the clock since Tuesday night (Nov. 5) to identify and bring this person into custody," said W.S.P.D's Lieutenant Sockman in a press release. "The West Sacramento Police Department is grateful to the media and the citizens for their assistance in this investigation. The broadcast of Anthon's and McKee's photographs via media and social media networks resulted in a significant amount of tips from the community which led to their identification."



On parade

A community group stepped up to make sure West Sacramento had a Veterans Day Parade this year.

Led by the Bryte & Broderick Community Action Network (BBCAN) and event chairperson Alicia Cruz, the event wound its way along local streets Monday morning. City Councilman Mark Johannessen served as announcer.

Local group invites you to look at threatened trees

The next phase of a housing project near the Tower Bridge threatens the existence of about a dozen large trees along West Capitol Avenue between 3rd and 5th streets.

The Capital Courtyards project by Wolff Enterprises of Arizona envisions over 300 units of apartments -- and a partially-underground garage that would necessitate removal of the trees.

West Sacramento's Lana Paulhamus and the West Sacramento Conservancy would like the city council to say 'no.'

The trees are identified by the city as London plane trees, and by the Conservancy as a rare sycamore.

Interested people are invited to meet at 10 a.m. on Saturday at 5th and G to walk to the site.

For the News-Ledger's report on the first phase of the project -- and the removal of a different row of trees -- visit www.westsac.com/blog/2012/12/10/big-old-trees-stand-in-the-way-of-new-development-in-west-sac/

The clerk called police, but the couple were gone before officers

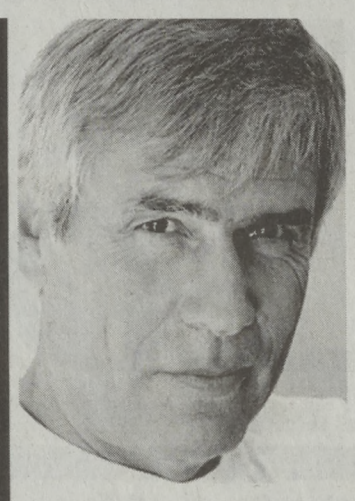
One soldier's perfumed letters from home

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

Another Veterans Day has just come and gone and I find myself remembering that, in Vietnam, there were two things a soldier always wanted to do every day. First, he wanted to avoid making any contact whatsoever with the enemy, and second, he wanted to receive at least one letter from home.

Mail call was everything in Vietnam and any day you got a letter from a loved one was a good day. Letters were often the only tangible proof that someone back in the world still cared and that we hadn't been totally forgotten. They were also a status symbol. The more letters you got, the more envied you were, and for about six months way back in late-1969 and early-1970, no one in my Aero Rifle Platoon was more envied than a guy I'll call Mike.

Mike was a quiet, unassuming thump-gunner who had been in the platoon for weeks before most of us even knew he was there. He was painfully shy and for the longest time he never spoke to anyone unless he was spoken to first. Even his physical features more or less blended into his surroundings. He was kind of boring looking, if that makes any sense.

To be honest about it, no one much cared one way or the other about Mike until rumors began circulating that he was receiving lots of letters from home. Not only that, but he was also getting packages filled with all kinds of goodies.

"So, what's in those packages the new guy keeps getting from home?" I finally asked the veteran soldier who bunked next to him.

"Cookies, candy, canned fruit, big ol' salamis, sunflower seeds, jars of honey, you name it," came the answer. "And get this, most of his letters smell like they were postmarked in some French whorehouse, too."

It was definitely time to talk to the platoon's mail clerk, who confirmed that it was all true. "The guy may have the personality of a fence post," said our mail clerk, "but he's putting everyone around here to shame when it comes to getting letters and packages."

"I hear all the letters are perfumed," I said.

"Not all of them, but the ones that come from Kansas are – and we're talking expensive, classy perfume, too. Hell, I spend most of my day sniffing that guy's letters."

"Maybe he has a really sexy girlfriend or something?" I asked.

"In Kansas?"

Anyway, a meeting was finally called and I was elected to make a herculean effort to become Mike's first real friend in Vietnam -- and it turned out to be a very rewarding task.

"You're supposed to find out about the perfumed letters, right?" Mike asked me the second time I invited him to attend the base's Saturday night movie with me.

"Yeah," I admitted. "We're all pretty jealous."

"Look, if I tell you, and you tell everyone else, they're all just going to be disappointed."

"Come on, Mike," I begged, "we're all dying to know."

"Okay," he finally said, "I'll tell you, but I'm not going to tell anyone else. If you want to, I guess that's okay, but I really don't think it's anybody else's business. The perfumed letters – and the packages – come from my Nana."

"Your Nana?" I asked, shocked. "You mean your grandmother? You're putting me on, right?"

"Nope. I just happen to have the greatest grandmother in the whole world."

"But what about all the sexy perfume on the letters?"

Mike smiled and said, "Well, when I was real young – in grade school – my parents busted up and I lived with my Nana for about five years. And every morning, when she would wake me up for school, the first thing I smelled was this incredible perfume she always wore. And to this day, all I have to do is take a little whiff of her perfume and I think of her – and of growing up happy and wanted. She knows that when I smell her perfume, I think of her – and home."

> Mail call was everything in Vietnam, and any day you got a letter from a loved one was a good day. Letters were often the only tangible proof that someone back in the world still cared and that we hadn't been totally forgotten.

"So, there's no sexy girlfriend?"

"Nope. Sorry. Just my Nana, although she still thinks of herself as a pretty sexy lady."

About four or five months later – long after I had agreed to keep Mike's secret – the perfumed letters and packages suddenly came to an abrupt halt. Everyone in the platoon was sure that Jody had struck again and that, like so many other girls with boyfriends in Vietnam, even Mike's sexy lady had tired of waiting and found someone else.

The truth turned out to be even sadder. Mike's beloved Nana had passed away from congestive heart failure.

GUEST COMMENTARY:

Grand jury follow-up

Barbara Sommer
President
Yolo County Chapter, California Grand Jurors' Association

Sometimes the Yolo County Grand Jury addresses sensational topics, such as the recent expose of malfeasance in the probation department, or the delivery of an indictment in the Deputy Tony Diaz murder case. In most instances, its work and possibly it highest value lies in keeping tabs on more mundane activities. A major and very important function of the Yolo County Grand Jury is to see that county agencies and organizations, including special districts, are providing residents with good service. Every year the Grand Jury issues a report describing its investigations along with recommendations. Agencies are required to respond to these recommendations within 90 days. However, by the time the responses come in, a new Grand Jury is in place.

As former grand jurors and members of the Yolo Chapter of the California Grand Jurors' Association, we have followed up on previous Grand Jury recommendations. We selected responding agencies that stated they were either planning to implement a recommendation or needed time for further study. We wrote to agency heads listing earlier Grand Jury recommendations (along with their agency's responses) and asked about the current status of the situation.

Here is our update for two departments. We do not imply that these departments were more remiss than others or that laws were broken. Rather, we wish to illustrate how citizen follow-up can improve the workings of county government.

Department of Employment and Social Services (DESS)

In 2009-10 the Grand Jury investigated the Department of Employment and Social Services (DESS) in response to a complaint alleging mismanagement, favoritism, and fraud. The Grand Jury found questionable practices with regard to timekeeping and pay for non-work related activities.

A review of calendars and e-mails showed that records regarding employee absences were incomplete. In two cases vacation and sick leave times were misrepresented. It appeared that one employee supplemented county disability benefits by claiming to work part-time at DESS in order to receive full pay and continue to accrue full leave benefits. In Police responded to a Water Street apartment. A woman there reported that "her brother was drunk and smashed the sliding glass door with a garden auger."

He was not present when police arrived. But she signed a citizen's arrest, and the brother was arrested and jailed after he came back to the residence.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The West Sacramento Police Department is undergoing a transition in its data management. Because of this, we currently have access to many of the department's arrest reports, but not to the logs of calls for service and reports of crime. Responding to an inquiry from the News-Ledger, a spokesman said the department hopes for a solution sometime after January 1.

another instance, an employee, who worked part-time, accumulated full-time sick and vacation time by failing to turn in time sheets. Some employees were taking long lunches and going shopping during paid working hours, the activity being allowed as a "morale booster." In addition there was evidence that some managers, in violation of the department's written policy, were inappropriately telecommuting. The Grand Jury concluded its investigation finding that the method of time keeping used by the department could permit fraud. It also found that the rules regarding telecommuting had not been enforced.

The following year's Grand Jury (2010-11), believing that the issues raised in the previous year had not been fully resolved, conducted a further investigation of DESS. Although they found no further evidence of timekeeping misuse, there continued to be discrepancies and inadequacies in that system. DESS did not use a reliable timekeeping system to capture employee time worked on specific projects or jobs. Employees did not report hours worked on a daily basis. Inadequate internal controls to monitor hours worked continued to create a potential for fraud or accidental misrepresentation.

Where are we today? The Auditor-Controller has performed an audit of the department. The Interim Director of DESS indicated that the system now in place "provides for supervisorial approval, and appears to reduce the potential for fraud while providing an electronic audit trail." He also stated that there were no telecommuting employees, a subject of previous concern. The Yolo County Board of Supervisors adopted a Policy on Employee Timekeeping (August 2011) that prescribes timekeeping practices for all employees of Yolo County "for the purpose of ensuring adequate accountability."

However, by the Auditor-Controller's own account, the county needs a more uniform and robust timekeeping system. The county is in the process of acquiring that, but it has not occurred. There are fragments of systems in place, some addressing the tracking of absences, but four units still use their own systems. And we don't know whether a uniform attendance and leave policy is in place. It is our understanding that most counties have a single attendance policy and timekeeping system. We hope this will soon be in place in Yolo County and that it will apply to DESS.

Department of General Services (DGS)

The 2010-11 Grand Jury investigated allegations of timesheet falsification within one work group of the department. The allegations proved to be unfounded. However, the investigation revealed a lack of communication regarding personnel policies and procedures, both within the department and with the County Department of Human Resources (HR). As they did not have access to computers and didn't receive the e-mail notifications of changes, employees in the DGS were not up-to-date on changes in County policies and procedures. For example, they were unaware that in August 2009 Yolo County adopted a County Whistleblower Policy and Procedure.

Since the report was published, the department's functions have been incorporated into the reorganized Division of Administrative Services. The new Director's response to the Grand Jury report was "Human Resources will create a system which will require department heads to verify they have kept employees up to date on policy and procedure changes."

Where are we today? The County has developed a mobile system that visits every work site in the county twice annually. HR Mobile distributes policy and procedure information and mandatory training. It appears to be an innovative way to address the concerns identified in the 2010-11 Grand Jury report.

still packs an emotional punch. The two main characters, Blanche Hudson, who lives in seclusion after a crippling accident, and her sister, Baby Jane, her caregiver, are still intriguing and manage to somehow maneuver the delicate balance between suspense and high camp.

If you have never read this incredible novel, this is the chance to do so. It has just been reissued along with three short stories, including "What Ever Happened to Cousin Charlotte," the inspiration for the film "Hush ... Hush, Sweet Charlotte."

COUCH THEATER DVD PREVIEWS

BY SAM STRUCKHOFF

PICKS OF THE WEEK

"Red 2" (R) -- A handful of renegade CIA retirees go back into action to kill bad dudes and recover a nuclear weapon. The aging -- but still deadly -- ensemble includes Bruce Willis (tough guy and hero), John Malkovich (the Mad-Dog Murdoch of the crew) and Helen Mirren (elegant and sophisticated, even when operating an automatic weapon). Mary-Louise Parker rounds out the cast as Bruce's civilian girlfriend.

While the explosions are big and bright, this film has an acute case of sequel-itis. Willis looks bored for most of the proceedings. The jokes don't land the way they did in the prequel. Sir Anthony Hopkins has a fun role as a scientist -- possibly the mad kind. If you truly enjoyed the first round, then go ahead and rent this as a follow-up.

Hellen Mirren in 'Red 2'

"Jobs" (PG-13) -- Steve Jobs had an undeniably dramatic and intriguing life. From his early years, to the launch of Apple Computers, all the way up to his triumphant return to the company he built and then lost. Ashton Kutcher clearly put in the research for his role as Jobs. Josh Gad -- a more comedic type -- does a great job of depicting Steve Wozniak, the techie who built the first Apple motherboard, and a companion to the often anti-social Jobs.

Sadly, the film never rises above the point of worshipping Steve Jobs. The tone of the movie is hard to pin down -- I thought I was watching a parody for a good portion of the run time. People respond to every word Jobs utters with bated breath, just on the edge of applauding nothing. Even when the movie shows the darker side of the man, it's feels more obligatory than organic.

"Knightriders" (Blu-ray) -- This 1981 low-budget treasure finally makes it to Blu-Ray. See, there's this radical roadshow going through small-town America -- a Renaissance Fair bloodsport on wheels. The film tells the oh-so-wonderful story of men in medieval armor who ride around on dirtbikes and fight with swords and flails. Ed Harris turns in a swell performance as the gang's delusional leader -- his character takes the knight stuff a little too seriously, while all of the other performers just want Knightriders to achieve the same commercial success as Monster Trucks. George A. Romero (the father of the modern zombie film) directed this little ditty and promptly went back to making monster flicks.

DOG OF THE WEEK

"Getaway" (PG-13) -- Ethan Hawke plays a race-car driver who must perform a high-octane crime spree -- or they'll kill his wife. Somewhere along the way, a teenage runaway (Selena Gomez) gets into the passenger seat. One would think that a movie that presses on the gas pedal and never lets up would be an exhilarating experience. It's actually quite dull and exhausting to watch a feature-length car chase.

"Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?"
by Henry Farrell, with an introduction by Mitch Douglas (Grand Central Publishing, $15)
Reviewed by Larry Cox

In 1959, shortly after Henry Farrell published his first novel, "The Hostage," his wife, Molly, was diagnosed with cancer. Suddenly faced with crushing medical expenses, Farrell, who had always been plagued with writer's block, had the additional challenge of creating a commercially successful literary property to solve their financial problems.

According to his literary agent, Mitch Douglas, Farrell began pulling together a story involving a former child star known in vaudeville as Baby Jane, and her sister, Blanche, who had become a glamorous movie star during the golden age of Hollywood. Farrell had no idea that his bizarre tale would introduce a whole new subgenre of gothic horror to the world.

"Whatever Happened to Baby Jane" was published in 1960 to critical acclaim, a book The New York Times called "a shocker," and indeed it was. A movie quickly followed featuring Joan Crawford and Bette Davis. It, too, became a cult classic.

As Farrell explained, "I decided on a story that was so outrageous that it couldn't help but be commercial," and added that Baby Jane was a blend of other child stars such as Baby Peggy of silent films and vaudeville's Baby Rose Marie, the singing child wonder who grew up to find an adult career in television.

Even 50 years later, this suspenseful noir classic

Holiday Dessert Drinks

Few aromas are more inviting than a cup of hot coffee on a crisp fall afternoon. While your guests are sure to enjoy a simple cup of coffee after a big Thanksgiving meal, it also might be fun to try a specialty coffee drink.

A pie or a cake are typically the heroes at every Thanksgiving table, but you might want to try something new to pair with or substitute for traditional desserts. I usually serve Thanksgiving dinner in the early afternoon. Most of my guests are too full to eat dessert right after dinner. My family and guests enjoy a hot beverage and then eat dessert a few hours later, or get dessert to go. Dessert drinks provide my guests with the best of both worlds, a hot beverage and a sweet to finish to their holiday meal.

I've provided you with some great ideas to garnish your after-dinner coffee drinks and a recipe for Maple-Cinnamon or Lemon-Viennese coffee. I?ve also included a delicious Orange Mulled Cider recipe for those who do not like coffee. Hot cider or hot, spiced teas are wonderful alternatives to coffee to warm and refresh your overstuffed guests.

Chocolate garnishes are a welcome addition to coffee or dessert drinks. Use a peeler to quickly shave chocolate over individual plates or cups. If you need a larger amount, use a box grater to grate an unwrapped square of room temperature Baker?s Chocolate onto a sheet of waxed paper. Use immediately or refrigerate until ready to use.

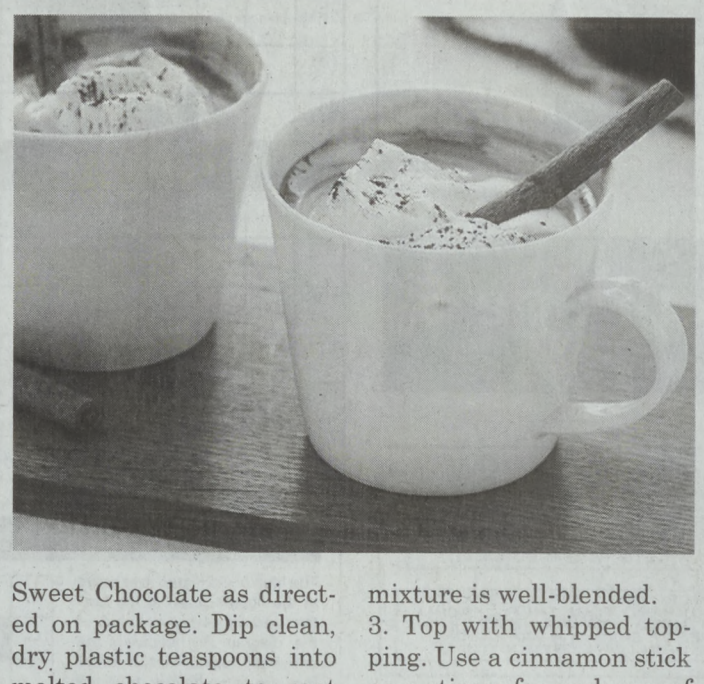
Making Chocolate Curls:

Warm a square of Baker's Chocolate by microwaving it, unwrapped, on HIGH for a few seconds or just until you can smudge the chocolate with your thumb. Hold the square steady and draw a peeler slowly over flat bottom of square, allowing a thin layer of chocolate to curl as it is peeled off to make long, delicate curls. Use the same technique along the narrow side of the square to make short curls.

Chocolate-Dipped Spoon:

Coffee will seem that much more enticing if served with a Baker?s Chocolate-Dipped Spoon. Here's how you do it: Melt one package (8 squares) Baker?s Semi-Sweet Baking Chocolate or one package (4 ounces) German Sweet Chocolate as directed on package. Dip clean, dry plastic teaspoons into melted chocolate to coat the bowls of the spoons; let excess chocolate drip off. Place in single layer in waxed paper-lined tray; refrigerate 10 minutes, or until chocolate is firm. Cover tray with plastic wrap. (Or wrap spoons individually with plastic wrap and tie ribbon around each to secure.) Store in refrigerator until ready to use.

Try serving a hot dessert drink after your Thanksgiving dinner. You might start a new tradition!



MAPLE-CINNAMON COFFEE

6 tablespoons ground Maxwell House regular or decaffeinated coffee
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 cup light maple-flavored or pancake syrup
4-1/2 cups cold water
6 tablespoons thawed Cool Whip Whipped Topping

1. Place coffee in filter in brew basket of coffee maker; sprinkle with cinnamon.
2. Pour syrup into empty pot of coffee maker. Add water to coffee maker; brew. When brewing is complete, stir until coffee mixture is well-blended.
3. Top with whipped topping. Use a cinnamon stick as a stirrer for each cup of coffee. Makes 6 servings, about 3/4 cup each.

Variations:

Lemon Viennese Coffee

Prepare as directed, substituting 1 tablespoon lemon zest for the cinnamon and 1/3 cup honey for the syrup.

ORANGE MULLED CIDER

1 gallon (4 quarts) apple cider
1 packet (makes 2 quarts drink) or 2 packets (makes 1 quart drink each) Crystal Light Classic Orange Flavor Drink Mix*
4 cinnamon sticks
2 teaspoons whole cloves
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg

1. Cook ingredients in large saucepan on low heat 20 minutes or until heated through, stirring occasionally. (Do not boil.)
2. Discard cinnamon sticks and cloves before serving. Makes 16 servings, 1 cup each.

*NOTE: Crystal Light packets come in two sizes. Please note packet size before preparing recipe.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property.
NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (714) 848-9272 or visit this Internet Web site www.elitepostandpub.com, using the file number assigned to this case 13-24505. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.

A. Comply with California Civil Code section 713 regarding real property signs; and,

D. Promote the public interest since the safety of pedestrians and vehicles, protection against fire, and the enhancement of the outward appearance of the community are important factors in the general welfare of the people, and accordingly, reasonable control of such signs by ordinance is in the public interest; and,

F. Direct traffic related to real property that is for sale, lease, or exchange, in a manner that minimizes visual clutter, reduces unnecessary traffic through neighborhoods, and provides an orderly, attractive, high quality image of the city; and
G. Provide directional guidance for the general public to seasonal agricultural activities in the city.

The undersigned caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (800) 280-2832 or visit this Internet Web site WWW.AUCTION.COM, using the file number assigned to this case 004530-CA. Yolo County is conducting a survey on mental health needs to help decide how to spend funding on mental health programs. One proposal calls for a 12-unit housing unit, with services, in Woodland. Those who are consumers of such services, county employees, service providers, or other "stakeholders" are invited to take the online survey. Visit: http://tinyurl.com/Yolo-MHSA-CPP-Survey.
